

The Mill Museum

The Windham Textile and History Museum was built by the Willimantic Linen Company in 1877. The building was used as a company store. The third floor housed a library. It is believed to be the first library established for the education of the workforce.

Color the museum.

